

White Labeling

API Only

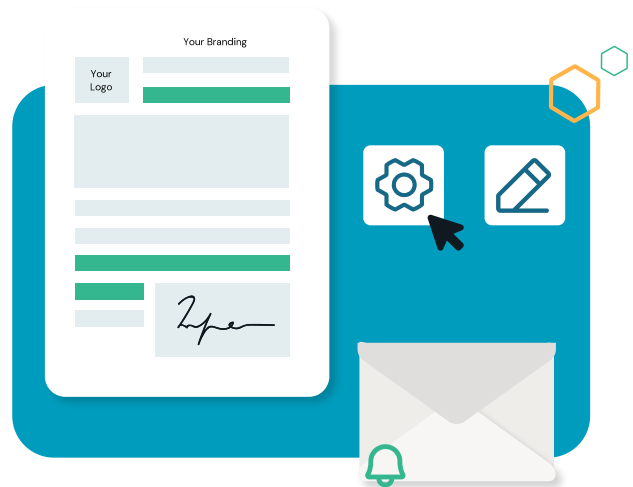

Docubee's embedded interfaces can be customized to remove all Docubee branding, seamlessly integrating into applications.

Note: Requests to Docubee are made via docubee.app domains, typically not visible to end users and cannot be configured otherwise at present.

While full white labeling of the web-based application is not currently available, users can take full advantage of our API to tailor Docubee's features to their specific needs.

Custom Branding

Docubee App

The Docubee platform allows users to customize their user's experience to more closely match their brand. This includes UI elements and emails such as:

- Colors
- Site Logos
- Headers
- Fonts
- Form Elements (Headers, Buttons, Fonts)
- Button Colors

Businesses can configure Docubee to utilize their SMTP servers for email delivery, ensuring seamless communication with users while maintaining brand consistency.

Docubee may still include branding such as site footers and other informational links in various areas of the product.
